| 1      | Campus Mobile Phone Bans in Senior High      | From legislative measures to administrative guidelines, countries around the world are actively responding to the impact of digital technology on students' learning and mental health. In Europe, campus mobile phone bans are becoming increasingly stringent. Do you agree that mobile phones should be banned in senior high school campuses? Share your thoughts with us. |
| 2      | Alex Honnold's free solo climb of Taipei 101 | Alex Honnold, the legendary climber, completed a ropeless, real-time ascent of Taipei 101 on January 24. Some people admire his great success, while others think the climb raised concerns about excessive "performative" behavior and imitation effects. What do you think about it? Share your thoughts with us.                                                            |
| 3      | Self-directed Study                          | As an old Chinese saying goes, "Learning is like rowing upstream: if you do not move forward, you will fall behind." Have you ever had difficulties adjusting yourself to the learning pace of a new semester? How do you organize your self-directed study plans during winter or summer vacations? Share your ideas with us.                                                 |
